The Research Presented

Thesis Title

Thesis: The Effectiveness of a Training Program in Developing Some Cognitive Skills in Autism

Summary Of The Study

Great Diversity in Abilities: Children with autism have a great diversity in individual abilities and needs, making it difficult to implement a single educational approach.

Communication Difficulties: Many of them face challenges in verbal and non-verbal communication, which affects their ability to interact with others and participate in the educational process.

Sensory Sensitivity: Hypersensitivity to environmental stimuli, such as noise and lighting, can lead to difficulties in focusing and learning in a traditional classroom environment.

Behavioral Challenges: Behaviors such as isolation, excessive routine, and difficulties adapting to change can appear, which pose challenges to their effective integration into general education programs. Read also:
